Summary

This table consolidates the location list from the Agricharts Ontario cash grid and cross-references it with publicly available evidence to determine whether each town has a single grain elevator or multiple/unknown. For towns with a single elevator, the operator is identified with citations where available. Many small hamlets in Ontario appear to have a single elevator operated by a local co-op or grain company, but larger towns often host multiple elevators operated by competing companies. Further research using local directories and provincial grain dealer registries may refine the entries marked "multiple/unknown."
